

The European Association for Personality Psychology (EAPP)

The European Association for Personality Psychology (EAPP) is an organization that aims at promoting personality psychology in Europe. The EAPP currently has over 200 active members from countries all over the world. The EAPP has been organizing biannual European Conferences on personality psychology since 1982, and is also actively involved in organizing and promoting expert meetings, summer schools, workshops and seminars. The EAPP also has its own official journal: the European Journal of Personality.

THE EAPP PURSUES THE FOLLOWING ACTIVITIES:

- >> Organization of meetings and conferences
- >> Promotion of mutual scientific communication and research cooperation between members, and between members and other scientists
- >> Publication of manuscripts
- >> Cooperation with other associations and institutions within and outside Europe

WE LOOK FORWARD TO WELCOMING YOU IN TIMISOARA, IN 2016!

On behalf of the co-organizing association and institution
